So, what is NDC?

New Distribution Capability (NDC) is a new way for airlines to sell flights to travel agents and travel bookers. This system helps airlines offer more options and personalized fares.

Each airline is creating its own NDC system, and travel companies like Corporate Traveller connect to these systems to give you access to better deals. As each airline builds its own unique NDC solution, the industry needs time to develop ways to access and fully test each system to make sure it meets the needs of your business travel program.
