

Template for Inviting colleagues

---

Hi everyone,

We would like to invite colleagues to a workplace screening of The People's Emergency Briefing - a new film bringing together leading UK experts to explain, as clearly as possible, what the latest science says about the climate and nature crisis, how it is already affecting our lives, and what can still be done.

Rather than headlines or politics, the film offers a concise, evidence-based overview from experts across areas including climate, food, health, economics, national security and extreme weather.

Screening details

 Location: [INSERT LOCATION]

 Date: [INSERT DATE]

 Time: [INSERT TIME]

This is not a campaign event, and no prior knowledge is needed. Whether climate and nature issues are central to your work, or something you've not had much time to explore, everyone is welcome.

We hope it will be a useful chance to hear directly from experts, reflect together, and discuss what it may mean for our organisation, our work, and our communities.

Please feel free to bring along colleagues from other teams.

If you'd like to attend, please [RSVP / add your name here / accept calendar invite].

Best,
[NAME]

*****

A few strategic notes:

- We would advise avoiding language like “emergency” too heavily in the email body (despite the title) - workplaces can be wary of anything that feels political or activist.
- Framing it as professional development / future risk awareness / informed discussion tends to work better, especially for businesses and large employers.