

TESTIMONIAL

Having known and interacted with A.S. Moloobhoy and the Moloobhoy Group over the years, I have had the opportunity to observe their evolution from a traditional marine business into a professionally managed and technically capable organisation serving the changing needs of the maritime industry.

What stands out about Moloobhoys is their deep understanding of the marine environment and their commitment to providing practical, dependable solutions to their customers. In an industry where responsiveness, technical competence and the ability to deliver at short notice are critical, Moloobhoys have consistently demonstrated these qualities. Their breadth of capability across navigation and communication systems, marine safety, lifesaving and firefighting equipment, servicing, and technical support gives them a strong understanding of the requirements of shipowners, operators and other maritime stakeholders.

The maritime industry is constantly evolving, with increasing emphasis on safety, regulatory compliance, technology and operational efficiency. Organisations such as Moloobhoys, which combine a long-standing maritime heritage with a willingness to adopt new technologies and develop new capabilities, have an important role to play in supporting this evolution.

I wish the Moloobhoy Group continued success as it builds on its long heritage and expands its capabilities and presence in India and international markets. Their enduring focus on service, technical excellence and customer relationships is a valuable foundation for the next phase of their growth.
