

Unlock more choice and exclusive content in Deem

Great news! We've expanded our offering for airline bookings in Deem, giving you more choice and access to richer fares.

Designed to deliver greater flexibility and value to your travel program, this enhancement ensures you can book flights more efficiently with access to the latest airline content. With this rollout, you'll benefit from content provided by leading airlines.

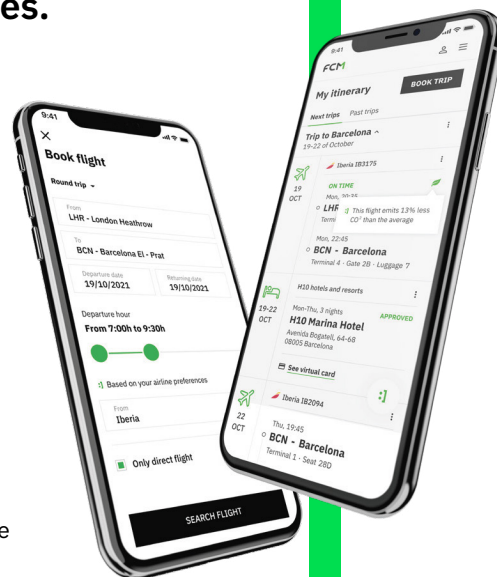

New NDC content in Deem

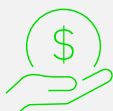

These airlines now offer content through their NDC (New Distribution Capability) solution, allowing them to distribute flights more efficiently and provide more fare options and pricing.

With this NDC content available in Deem, travelers can access more fare types that include added perks such as preferred seating, priority boarding, and same-day changes.

This new content works alongside your existing inventory, which already includes a variety of traditional Edifact content, direct API connections, and leading aggregator content. Now, you can explore all flight options in a single search, ensuring a more streamlined booking experience.

Maximise your travel program: key benefits of NDC content in Deem

More pricing options:

Access lower fares and promotions through NDC, and dynamic pricing models that update in real-time.

More choice, better control:

Gain access to a wider range of flights, including airline offers that aren't available through traditional booking methods.

A better booking experience:

Do more online with the ability to select seats, add baggage, and customise your trip at the time of booking.

What is NDC?

New Distribution Capability (NDC) is a new way for airlines to sell flights to travel agents and travel bookers. This solution helps airlines offer more options and personalised fares.

Each airline is creating its own NDC solution, and travel companies like FCM connect to these systems to give you access to better deals. As each airline builds its own unique NDC solution, the industry needs time to develop ways to access and fully test each system to make sure it meets the needs of your business travel program.