Dear Oakville,

Re: Thank You, Oakville

I am deeply honoured and humbled to have been elected as the next Mayor of Oakville.

To everyone who voted, volunteered, knocked on doors, made phone calls, put up a lawn sign, shared a post, hosted a conversation, or encouraged us along the way, thank you. This campaign was powered by people who care deeply about Oakville, and I could not be more grateful for the support you have shown me.

Over the past several months, I have had the privilege of meeting residents across our Town, listening to your concerns, hearing your ideas, and talking about the future we want for Oakville. Those conversations reinforced why I ran: because our Town matters, and the decisions we make today will shape the community we leave for the next generation.

I want to take a moment to sincerely thank Mayor Rob Burton for his 20 years of dedicated service to our community. Rob has devoted two decades to leading Oakville, and his contributions to our Town deserve recognition and appreciation. I am also grateful for his gracious concession on election night, his personal congratulations, and his commitment to ensuring a smooth transition. Having served alongside Rob on Council for many years, I know firsthand the demands and responsibilities of this office, and I thank him for his years of public service.

I also want to thank my fellow mayoral candidates, Sean O'Meara, Julia Hanna, and Arvind Choudhary, along with their campaign teams and supporters. Each brought ideas, perspectives, passion, and enthusiasm to this election. While we may have differed in our approaches, we all share a love for Oakville and a desire to see it succeed. Our community is better served when people are willing to step forward, engage in meaningful dialogue, and offer their vision for its future. I thank each of you for your contributions to this important conversation.

Throughout this campaign, we talked about protecting our neighbourhoods, managing growth responsibly, keeping our town safe, supporting local businesses, and making Town Hall more open, transparent, and accountable to the people it serves.

Now, the real work begins.

I know that being Mayor is a responsibility, not simply a title. I will approach this role with the same commitment to public service that has guided me throughout my years serving Oakville and our community. I will listen, ask questions, work collaboratively to find solutions, and remember that local government should always put residents first.

To my incredible campaign team and volunteers, thank you for your countless hours, your energy, and your belief in this campaign. To my family, especially Michelle, thank you for standing beside me through every moment of this journey. Your love and support made it possible.

And to everyone who supported another candidate, I want you to know that I will be working for all of Oakville. Elections give us an opportunity to debate different ideas and choose a direction, but once the votes are counted, we move forward together. We may not always agree, but we all have a stake in the future of this Town, and every resident deserves to be heard, respected, and represented.

This campaign may be coming to an end, but our work together is just beginning.

Thank you, Oakville, for your trust. I will work every day to earn it.

Together, let's protect our town and build a future we can all be proud of.

Jeff Knoll

Mayor Elect of Oakville
