Cover Letter

With a cultivated aesthetic sense and a fervent drive for tackling complex challenges, I've spent the past decade crafting websites and apps that seamlessly blend user needs with business objectives, delivering visually compelling content.

Throughout my career, I've recognized the power of questioning design solutions, leveraging both quantitative and qualitative insights from user research to fuel creativity and drive superior outcomes.

From small startups to established agencies, I've honed my ability to collaborate within teams, both as a member and a leader. My expertise encompasses responsive and adaptive design, app design, branding... I have worked within agile and cross-functional environments.

Hive Technologies

Senior Product Designer

As the most experienced senior product designer, I played a pivotal role in elevating the overall UX/UI acumen of the design team, fostering a culture of continuous learning, feedback and improvement.

With the WMS team we led the transformation of the warehouse web application workflows. By implementing data-driven design decisions, leveraging techniques such as user interviews, usability testing, and card sorting, we refined the application's flows and functionalities to better the user's experience and enhance production.

Gorillas GmbH

Senior Product Designer

Collaborating seamlessly across frontends, backends, and product management, our team developed the Gorillas Warehouse App.

Through a combination of techniques such as interviews, competitor analysis, prototyping, testing, and user shadowing, we meticulously crafted an application that effectively addressed global user challenges.

By streamlining supplier management, waste, customer orders, and inventory tracking, the app significantly enhanced warehouse productivity on a global scale.

SKILLS
