01 / THE APPROACH

An arrival to remember.

Designed by Frank Gehry and Gehry Partners, Prospect Place marks the practice's first residential project in the UK.

Sculptural white facades frame the landscaped approach to this Wilshire House townhouse, with the Power Station chimney forming a distinctive backdrop.

DAYLIGHT / PROSPECT PLACE

Framed by greenery.

Trees, ornamental grasses and timber planters soften the white facade and frame the approach to the entrance.

Beyond the timber gate, the terrace and double-height glazing create an immediate sense of the home within.

LATE AFTERNOON / WILSHIRE HOUSE

A different perspective on city living.

SPACE. LIGHT. CHARACTER.

A four-bedroom townhouse in Wilshire House, Battersea Power Station, with 2,161 sq ft of internal space and a 267 sq ft terrace.

Arranged over two floors, the townhouse has four bathrooms and a striking double-height reception space. Tall glazing draws daylight into the interior.

The kitchen and dining spaces bring together dove grey cabinetry, timber accents and generous surfaces. Bedrooms and bathrooms continue the quiet, contemporary interior.

04 / KITCHEN

At the heart of the home.

Dove grey cabinetry and warm timber accents, with white honed Silestone surfaces, Siemens appliances and a Hansgrohe mixer specified in the original development schedule.

Made for gathering.

The dining area sits alongside the kitchen, framed by a rich blue wall and warm timber flooring. Open shelving and integrated appliances keep the kitchen composition clean.

A quiet place to unwind.

Soft upholstery, tall curtains and warm parquet create a restful bedroom setting.

Large windows continue the home's emphasis on daylight and a connection to its architectural surroundings.

Room for a slower morning.

SOFT TONES

Neutral fabrics and timber flooring bring a consistent sense of warmth to the bedrooms.

WARM TEXTURES

Simple furniture arrangements and generous windows give each room a light, composed character.

Considered in every detail.

The original London-palette specification pairs white marble vanity tops with Hansgrohe AXOR brassware, timber-finish vanity units and illuminated mirrors.

The townhouse, in plan.
