

Hi Saumya,

So, when I first sent you email, it was just based on very little information about you and mainly about my instincts. :P This entire 1 year or even entire life has been mostly about my instincts. :P

But, when I saw you, when I met you, when I talked with you, spent those 7+ hours with you and also every single message we shared before and after our meeting. I became a bit more proud about myself and about my instincts. :P

Yes, you are smart, you are definitely an attractive as a person and really a good conversationalist. If I'm sending you this after a year and still remembering you, it means you were and are attractive. :P

If I have to sum up in 1 phrase it will be you are truly an example of "Beauty with Brains". :)

Maybe now I somewhat understand why you liked Bloom as a character. You have some of her traits, like being friendly and having that naturally attractive vibe. You are kind of person who leaves an impression that people remember for a long time, or maybe even forever. :)

(This I'm saying from the experience of watching few of Winx Club seasons. I felt, your personality is somewhat influenced from her. Personally, I also liked Roxy and that pet Kikoo & Quillcat. :P)

Yes, I would like to say that - 1 thing where I was wrong about you being the ambitious girl. While having conversations with you, I felt you are not so ambitious about career mainly in this corporate setup. But, I know you will do wonders when you do something of your own. Just believe in yourself. :)

I hope you continue doing things you love, keep playing TT, keep playing Poker, fulfil your childhood dream of best marriage, cook food with complex ingredients, eat good spicy momo, keep reading novels, write poems, stay fit & everything else that you want to do. :) :) :)

Will end this by just wishing you - Happy Belated Birthday, Aries Girl! :)

Have Good Dreams. Stay Curious. Keep Smiling. :)

Yours,

Someone who admired you ~~from a gentle distance~~
