The Arbolus story so far

After years in the expert network space, Sam Glasswell and Will Leeming saw an opportunity to modernise an industry stuck in the past. In 2018, they founded Arbolus, built to be global from day one, and quickly gained traction in strategy consulting.

Today, we're a data business built on over 1 million data points across thousands of companies, backed by a community of 200K+ experts.

What started as a network for finding expert knowledge has become a platform where that knowledge is structured, visible, and valued for clients making high-stakes decisions, and for experts sharing what they know.
