School Pledge

We the leadership and governors of this school, pledge to do no harm. We will not collect or share information about the immigration status of our pupils or their families with the Home Office or any immigration enforcement body. We will not ask questions about status that are not required for the provision of education. We will not allow our school to become a site of surveillance, suspicion, or fear.

We recognise that every child has a legal right to education regardless of their immigration status or that of their parents. But we go further than the legal minimum. We commit to making our school a place where every child and every family feels safe, welcome, and valued, not tolerated, not conditionally included, but genuinely belonging.

We will not participate in the hostile environment's attempt to embed immigration enforcement into everyday institutional life. We will not ask parents for documents they are not required to produce. We will not share attendance data or family information where doing so could put families at risk. We will ensure that our admissions, safeguarding, and pastoral processes are designed to protect children, not police them.

We will train our staff to understand these commitments and to recognise when requests for information cross the line from education into enforcement. We will be honest with families about what we will and will not do with the information they share with us.

Every child who walks through our doors belongs here.

We sign this pledge and we invite our community to hold us to it.
