The 'Unite the Kingdom' rally in London, 'March for Australia' and similar popular peaceful events in many Western nations express rising concern over mass immigration, population replacement, and changes in laws which lead to the rapid erosion of freedom, increased violence, antisemitism, and two-tiered policing. Accurate, informed analysis of 'Worldviews in Conflict' point to the combined influence of Marxism and Islam undermining freedom and justice, and the Truth on which it is founded.

Masterful manipulation of language and images facilitate powerful, mind-controlling propaganda. Changing the meaning of words facilitates the equality and inclusion of the Will of Man as the first step towards achieving its supremacy and the exclusion of the Word of God.

Romanticising the language with which a beguiling ideology is promoted does not sanitise its abusive consequences. Christian engagement in politics, law, education and the media is imperative.

The Australian National Day of Prayer on May 23rd focused on repentance and prayers for the blessings of God on our land. Christians were urged to return to the Lord, regain unity of purpose, the restoration of righteousness and the Judeo-Christian value of human life upon which our freedoms were established.

Preserving Western civilization protects the right of self-determination of sovereign nations against moral relativism, divisive identity politics and the dictatorship of powerful supranational globalist organisations:

"The sovereignty of states must be subordinated to international law and international institutions."
George Soros

The intellectual integrity to pursue the truth, the moral courage to uphold it with perseverance, wisdom and grace - regardless of cost - are essential to regaining rapidly eroding freedom. The example of Jesus; the courage, strength, perseverance and faithfulness of persecuted Christians remain a guiding Light in turbulent times.

When authoritarian governments are confronted with verified, uncompromising, evidence-based truth, presented with perseverance, moral and political pressure, they may eventually feel obliged to calmly and analytically assess the impacts of their decisions, recalibrate their ideology, change public policy to reflect the will of their people, and preserve God-ordained freedom on which our quality of life - and life itself - depend.

australianchristianfreedomindex.org.au

Launched at Parliament House on 28 May, this 108-page report was initiated by George Christensen, undertaken by The Daily Declaration, and co-authored by the Human Rights Law Alliance, with contributions from many distinguished Christian leaders and eminent lawyers. The Index identifies 74 Acts of Parliament that limit Christian belief and practice, revealing that restrictions to Christian freedom have tripled in five years. Almost half have been introduced since 2020.

The Index includes 27 recommendations presented to the Australian government to defend Christians against discrimination and persecution. All have been disregarded. By contrast, 35 unnamed recommendations in the Malik Report have been accepted to protect Muslims from 'Islamophobia'.

10,808 Australian Christians were surveyed to reveal current trends:

- 92% stated that it is riskier than five years ago to publicly identify as Christian.
- 73% feel pressured to keep their faith private at work, online, or in public.
- 42% have experienced hostility, threats, or harassment for expressing a Christian view.
- 25% have been denied opportunities in work, volunteering, or leadership because of their beliefs.

The ACFI documents more than 40 cases of Christians prosecuted or sidelined for expressing or living out their faith. Jillian Spencer, Lyle Shelton, Kirralee Smith and Bernard Gaynor are among many enduring years of expensive, vexatious litigation; losing jobs, being removed from university courses or leadership roles for upholding Christian values and articulating inconvenient facts.

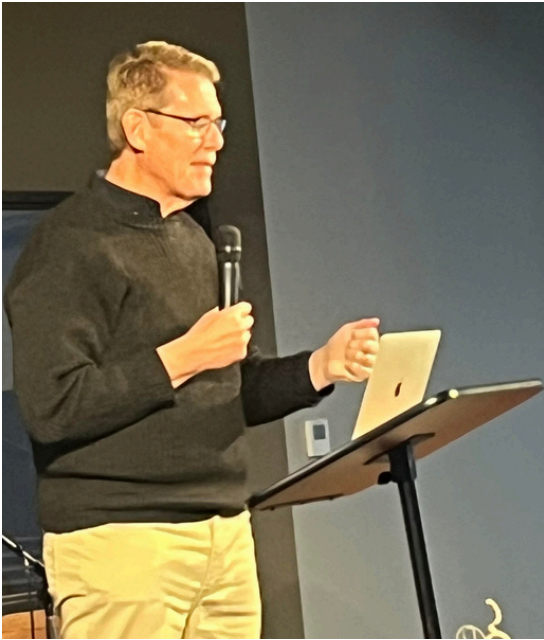

This detailed information underscores the essential service to our nation provided by dedicated researchers, political analysts, investigative journalists and lawyers. Exposing gross injustice, abuse of power and the abandonment of truth and common sense reveals the extent to which Antonio Gramsci's "Long March Through the Institutions" of Western nations is occurring through deception, delusion, denial, deflection and diversion.

The Australian Freedoms Act is being drafted by Christian lawyers; proposed as an enforceable nationwide protection for freedom of speech, religion, conscience, and association - the freedoms Australia pledged to uphold as a signatory to international human rights covenants: UDHR, ICCPR.

Christians who fled to Australia to escape persecution in their countries of origin express great alarm at Australia's rapidly eroding freedom, and increasing compliance with Marxism and Islam. They bring with them irrefutable, documented evidence of the suffering inflicted upon generations of vulnerable communities by totalitarian regimes, of which the Australian electorate needs to be made aware.

The ACFI received great encouragement from the US State Department's Global Human Rights Division whose recently released Religious Liberty Commission report revealed the marked decline of Christian liberty in the USA under the Biden administration. Warwick Marsh and Kurt Mahlborg, leading authors of the ACFI, presented the highly acclaimed document in Washington to American allies who stand with us to defend Christian freedom.

Canberra “Understanding Islam” Seminar

Responding to CFF's invitation, 'Alliance for a Strong Australia' facilitated this vital seminar to equip Christians, Jews, church leaders and all concerned Australians with essential knowledge to stand united against antisemitism, uphold our values and defend God-given freedom.

Presented by Rev Dr Mark Durie, and generously hosted by Vision Church, the seminar revealed Islamic texts, aims and history, and suggested strategies to protect Western values that contribute to a safe community.

Mark is a Fellow at the Middle East Forum, a Senior Research Fellow of the Jeffery Centre for the Study of Islam, Melbourne School of Theology. His latest PhD is in Islamic Ideology. An internationally respected authority on human rights and freedom, Mark is an elected member of the Australian Academy of Humanities. His books include, "Liberty to the Captives", "The Third Choice" and "Which God?".

Videos of 1. What is Islam? 2. The Downside of Islam; 3. Islamic Antisemitism; 4. Christian Response can be viewed at:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2AvBqXl1TiM&list=PLBLEY0qGv0W8>

As antisemitism is on the rise and the persecution of Christians is intensifying – reportedly 400 million worldwide (80% of which occurs in Islamic nations) – the seminar provided essential information to defend Australia's heritage of freedom from rapidly encroaching islamization.

Mark advised, “Hold on to both Truth and Love – don't sacrifice one for the other.” Loving God and loving Muslims commits us to tell the truth that sets people free from deception.

Islam's Hatred of Jews originated with Mohammad's fury at being rejected as the “Last Great Prophet” by the Banu Qurayza Jewish community in Medina in 627. Their refusal to acknowledge the Qur'an as the Word of God or bow down and worship Allah, resulted in the slaughter of all 600 – 900 men, the enslavement of women and children, and the take-over of Jewish land and property. Jihad was thus well rewarded, setting a dangerous precedent that resulted in the subjugation of millions of people in once-Christian lands, and the slaughter of millions more in the last 1400 + years.

Jesus' challenge to Saul on the Road to Damascus, “Why are you persecuting Me?” underscores the imperative to challenge all secular and religious ideologies that mandate the violation of God-given, rights, and represent a serious threat to human life and liberty – increasingly in Western nations.

The seminar, attended by over 100 people, was opened with a warm welcome by Rev Mark Leach, founder of ‘Never Again Is Now’ – recently rebranded, 'Allies for a Strong Australia'. He concluded the seminar with the outline of a 'battle plan' to involve all concerned Australians in the formation of public policy that determines the future of our nation.

“Our tolerant, multi-ethnic liberal democracy finds it hard to face the reality that a million Australians follow a religion responsible for more than 50,000 terrorist attacks in the last 25 years. It is an extraordinary feat to make politicians who care about justice, women's rights, and the eradication of war, bend the knee to a totalitarian, oppressive, and exploitative ideology.”

“The strategy of ‘The Allies’ is to build chapters in every Federal electorate to ensure that each politician knows that they will not get re-elected if they support antizionist, anti-Jewish, anti-western civilizational policies. It is only electoral accountability and grass-roots advocacy to counter the sanitised version of Islam that will change politicians' behaviour.”

Clarion Call to Defend Freedom and Restore Biblical Values

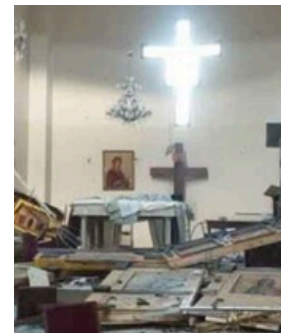

Religious liberty analysts believe that the spiritual decline of Christianity in parts of the West is the result of Christians adjusting their faith to meet the expectations of secular society, influenced by cultural Marxism and Islam.

Christian solidarity that once helped to protect religious freedom, strengthen institutions and fund missions has also been weakened by poverty, violence, totalitarian oppression, ethnic divisions, and a hostile political environment. Western churches once provided the financial and prayer support that planted churches, created seminaries, provided Bible translators, publishers and distributors, and built hospitals, orphanages and schools. Supporting Christian institutions that took decades to create is essential for their survival, especially in a world of rapid change, fragile democracies, and rapidly increasing persecution.

This decline has come at the high cost of diminished religious freedom in general, and protection for vulnerable, persecuted Christians in particular. Global advocacy has declined as churches lose their focus on Christ; captured by moral and intellectual ideas that denigrate Christian beliefs as optional, negotiable or just embarrassing.

When the Church is weak, persecuted Christians lose visibility: media focus fades, governments face less diplomatic pressure to alleviate suffering, and uphold the international human rights covenants of which they are signatories. Persecutors are rarely held to account for serious crimes against humanity.

A weakened Western Church, and suffering Christians in the Global Church, are family. God's people are called to respond with true compassion: uphold Gospel truth, form communities of worship, justice and evangelistic courage, and share resources to reach a world desperately in need of a unified, Christ-centred Church. Scripture commands us to steadfastly uphold the truth, following the example of Jesus who repeatedly exposed and challenged deception. He forcefully cleansed the Temple of corruption, and used Scriptural authority to win every argument against the Pharisees, Sadducees, and Scribes—especially against Satan himself.

Persecuted Christians Need Representation in Canberra

Inspired by the heroism of Christ's persecuted followers, Christian Faith and Freedom was established as a "Mordecai - Esther" ministry in Canberra, to provide advocacy, aid and prayer to protect Christian liberty. A registered charity and NGO, CFF aims to bridge the gap between persecuted Christians, the UN and authorities in Australia who have the power to influence positive change: Parliamentarians, DFAT, Embassies and High Commissions in our national capital.

CFF has supported the appeals of persecuted Christians for Australian diplomatic intervention in international human rights fora, and has made personal representation to Ministers and MPs. Every appeal is an opportunity to raise awareness of the religious and secular ideologies behind humanitarian abuse in order to prevent their gaining further political power in Australia.

CFF contributes submissions to parliamentary inquiries into proposed legislation that threatens Christian liberty. Recent submissions include 'Hate Speech Legislation and the NSW Human Rights Bill.

To advance this vital ministry at a time of increasing need at home and abroad, CFF seeks a Christian resident in Canberra who feels called to become an 'Ambassador for Christ', and others who are willing to offer part-time contributions to prayer ministry, fundraising, administration, web design, or provide well-researched articles for newsletters and weekly prayer bulletins.

Iran Update

Iran's barbaric crackdown has continued unabated since the U.S. and Israeli bombing of military and nuclear facilities began. The leadership has changed, but the regime pursues an unrelenting reign of terror. Iranian cleric Mohammad Kharrazi stated, "The only way to save the country... is building an atomic bomb and firing it." Rapid reconstruction of nuclear sites indicates the aim is mass destruction.

An estimated 60,000 unarmed protesters have been killed, with more than 6,000 people arrested as the regime targets dissent, and silences all who desperately desire to be free. Countless children and young adults – the future of any nation – are deliberately targeted, like Erfan Esfandiari (19) who offered sanctuary to protesters fleeing from security forces. He was his parents' only child, among many executed for acts of compassion by a regime determined to subjugate people who refuse to abandon their humanity.

Iranian prisons are notorious for serious human rights violations, including torture of Christians and prisoners of conscience. Conditions have deteriorated dramatically. The impact of US sanctions on Iran's economy and the reduction in oil revenue have jeopardised payment to IRGC operatives. Guards and some prison officials have abandoned their posts, leaving hardliners from the 'Counter-Terrorism Special Force' in charge. Middle East Concern reported that "prisoners are subjected to enforced disappearance."

The leadership of Iran's 'counter terrorism' has been condemned by both the U.S. government and the European Union for some of the worst human rights violations: "using excessive and lethal force, firing upon unarmed protestors, including women and children, with automatic weapons." The UN High Commissioner for Human Rights said, "I am appalled that, on top of the already severe impacts of the conflict, the rights of Iranian people continue to be stripped by the authorities in harsh and brutal ways."

Though remaining extremely dangerous, signs of IRGC decline include internal dissent, the death of military and political leaders in targeted air strikes, the abandonment of 50,000 mosques, public burning of the Qur'an, and economic hardship: long queues for fuel, food shortages and exorbitant inflation which led to widespread street protests in January. Kurdish fighters, desperate for independence and seeking revenge, may launch a ground invasion. The Iranian resistance coalition, loyal to Reza Pahlavi, has hidden weapons smuggled into Iran and has declared, "Next time we come out in protest, we will be armed".

Amidst violence and uncertainty, Iranian Christians ask for specific prayers:

For protection amid fear;
Healing for those injured and grieving;
Courage to stand firm in Christ;
Unjust arrests and executions to cease;
Prison cells to become places of unexpected Holy Spirit power and grace;
Leaders—within Iran and across the world—to speak boldly for freedom of belief;
Communication lines to reopen;
The Church to be a light that no crackdown can extinguish.
As they pray, many experience that strange, God-inspired hope that they carry like a secret flame.

Iranians need to know the hope of Christ in this time of war and persecution. The Real Story of Jesus is being streamed into Iran by a fast-growing satellite television network, bringing His love, salvation, healing and comfort to millions who have endured 47 years of oppression, trauma, death and destruction. At the end of each broadcast, a Farsi-speaking pastor invites viewers to pray for salvation, and to give their lives to Jesus in their own homes. Iranian intelligence knows Christian broadcasting is effective but cannot block every signal. Iranians are watching, responding, and turning to Jesus. Many declare: "We were persecuted before the war, and even if the persecution continues after the war, we will still serve Christ."

Iranian Women's Courage Honoured on International Women's Day

Iranian women have endured 47 years of abuse since the Ayatollah Khomeini took power in 1979. The subjugation of women runs deep in Islam and the regime's DNA, suppressing them systematically through misogynist laws. Many Iranian girls and women have been murdered by their fathers, brothers or husbands in "honour killings", for which men face no severe penalty. Many women have been deliberately shot in the face or doused with acid to disfigure them.

Courageous Iranian women rise as the true symbol of dedicated resistance and dignity. Millions of women bravely stand for justice, even at the cost of losing their lives, and enduring the grief and loss of their murdered children.

Reminiscent of the October 7, 2023 atrocities inflicted on Jewish women, reports have emerged of women being violated and mutilated, their bodies 'missing' to hide the regime's barbarity. Hundreds of thousands of women and girls have been arrested and publicly beaten by "morality police", like Mahsa Amini (22), brutalized and murdered in custody for allowing hair to show beneath her mandated hijab.

Instead of holding the regime accountable for monstrous crimes against humanity, the UN has absurdly rewarded Iran with a seat to monitor women's rights around the world.

In contrast, the European Parliament awarded the 2023 Sakharov Prize to Iran's Woman, Life, Freedom movement. Imprisoned anti-regime journalist, Narges Mohammadi, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Demonstrating the same dedication to truth, Marziyeh Amirizadeh converted to Christianity, smuggled Bibles into Iran and spread the Gospel with her co-religionist, Maryam Rostampour. They were arrested on multiple charges including apostasy, blasphemy, anti-government activities, promoting Christianity, acting against state security, and participating in illegal gatherings. During their 259-day imprisonment, they were subjected to solitary confinement, threats of torture, appalling conditions, and discriminatory treatment due to their faith. Sentenced to death, they endured months of intense interrogation and ill-treatment in Teheran's notorious Evin prison before earnest prayer, international advocacy and pressure secured their release. Both women have been honoured in CFF's 'Torchbearers for Christ'.

Marziyeh is the author of 'A Love Journey with God', sharing her inspiring story around the world to raise awareness of the ongoing persecution of women and religious minorities. She is the founder and president of NEW PERSIA whose mission is to be their voice; expose the lies of the Iranian Islamic regime, restore freedom, and the relationships between Persians, Jews, and Christians.

Australian Home Affairs Grants Millions to Groups Inciting Terrorism

A Freedom of Information request has uncovered disturbing information that Australia's Department of Home Affairs is approving funds to Islamic organisations, some of which are associated with incitement to domestic terrorism. The FOI indicates that Home Affairs, currently managed by Tony Burke who also holds portfolios in Immigration and cyber security, is managing a $25 million 'social cohesion package'. If Islam is compatible with Australian culture, why is it necessary to pay for 'social cohesion'?

The Lebanese Moslem Association (LMA) which manages Lakemba Mosque in Western Sydney where Islamic State preacher, Wissam Haddad, may have radicalised the Bondi shooter, was granted $1.5 million. $60 million has been awarded to protect the Muslim community from 'Islamophobia'. Why are Departments of Home Affairs and Security funding institutions that have led to violence and instability?

Senator James Paterson has tabled documents in Parliament exposing details of grants to Lakemba mosque and related organisations. They also document references to social media posts made by pro-Palestine groups including the declaration that Israel has no right to defend itself. A Labor MLA organised an 'Outrage Rally' on the anniversary of October 7 with the known extremist group, Hizb ut-Tahrir. After the Bondi massacre that claimed the lives of 15 of our own citizens, Australians are demanding the truth about the increase of radicalisation and terrorism. The answers lie in the Qur'an itself, the Sunna and Hadith which legitimise or mandate violence; the subjugation of women, non-Muslims and non-compliant Muslims.

On February 9th, 2024, prominent Islamic authority, Abdul Salam, stated that:

- Islam is incompatible with democracy
- anyone who rejects the message of Islam must be fought against
- all Muslims must work to establish the dominance and supremacy of Islam
- all non-Muslim religion is by definition tyranny
- jihad means "to struggle against the disbelievers"
- fighting unbelievers is the highest, most meritorious act in Islam.
- if the spread of Islam is inhibited, then the governing authorities must be overthrown.

These stipulations openly advocate sedition against democratically elected governments. CFF's concerns that Australian sovereignty and freedom are being rapidly eroded by acquiescence to demands for 'submission' to the authority of Islam were included in the comprehensive letter we sent to every Federal Parliamentarian earlier this year.

The most confronting are recommendations that the Government should:

- develop behavioural codes of conduct that promote Islam for all Australian Parliamentarians and staff
- promote mandatory 'training programs' for all parliamentarians to subscribe to the belief that 'Islamophobia' is a problem
- recommend funding boosts for Islamic entities to safeguard Islamic communities
- hold the media accountable for 'racism', which may limit free speech
- implement 'religious discrimination training' for all professionals in the Attorney General's Department
- establish an advisory panel from diverse Muslim communities to provide insight into the impacts and unintended consequences of new counterterrorism legislation.

This report seeks to establish Muslims as victims; indoctrinate and impose control over the Australian government, inject Islamic perspectives into our legal system, law enforcement, schools and universities, the media, and permeate 'counter terrorism' legislation, potentially undermining national security.

The concern of CFF has been exacerbated by the Prime Minister's announcement that his government has approved 35 of the 54 recommendations contained in the Malik report into "Islamophobia". He has not disclosed the ones that will influence Australian public policy or further erode traditional freedom.

Unless incompatible religious-political doctrines are investigated in depth, Australia will be vulnerable to more totalitarian violence, funded by tax dollars, and approved by our security departments. CFF believes that all Australians, including Muslims, deserve far better than religious or secular doctrines that deprive them of freedom, impose oppression, and the erosion of their full rights as citizens of a Christian nation.

Faith, Freedom and Remembrance: Perth Marks the Tiananmen Square Massacre

On the evening of 4 June, Members of Perth's community gathered in the CBD to remember the victims of the 1989 Tiananmen Square Massacre, and to stand in solidarity with those who continue to suffer persecution under the Chinese Communist Party (CCP). The candlelight vigil honoured the university students who peacefully called for democratic reform, as well as Christians, Falun Gong practitioners, Uyghurs, Tibetans and other religious and ethnic minorities who have endured oppression in the decades before and since that time.

Among the speakers were Hon Philip Scott MLC, Mark Hutchinson, Tshung Chang and several other community leaders who reflected on the importance of defending freedom of conscience, religious liberty and the inherent dignity of every human being.

Christian Faith and Freedom's Director of Advocacy was present at the commemoration, standing in remembrance and prayerful solidarity with China's persecuted minorities.

Members tied to the CCP - or acting on its behalf - may have been present, seeking information from participants by asking questions about their involvement and recording attendees in a likely attempt to intimidate them. While individual intentions remain unconfirmed, the concerns of attendees serve as a reminder of the vigilance of many Chinese dissidents and refugees, even after settling in democratic countries such as Australia.

For Christians, the significance of the vigil extended beyond remembering a tragic chapter of history. Scripture teaches that every person is created in the image of God and possesses inherent worth and dignity. Christians are called to "speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves"; to uphold truth and justice, and defend the oppressed. These principles stand in direct contrast with systems that suppress freedom of belief, censor truth, and persecute people for peaceful expression or the practice of their faith when it stands against injustice.

The Tiananmen Square Massacre remains one of the defining examples of authoritarian violence. The Perth vigil served not only as a memorial to those who lost their lives, but also as a call for Australians to cherish the freedoms they enjoy, pray for those still suffering under persecution, and remain steadfast in defending their God-given rights.

Protecting Egypt's Christian Heritage From Erasure and Government Control

The United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues is aware of Coptic Solidarity's grave concerns over the growing threat to Egypt's churches, monasteries, and historic Christian properties. A proposed law to create a new Egyptian government authority with broad powers over lands and facilities, would potentially take control of Christian properties, churches and monasteries. This would erode the autonomy of Christian institutions, and undermine Coptic ability to safeguard sacred sites that the Church has preserved and maintained for centuries.

Saint Catherine's Monastery, a prominent World Heritage UNESCO site, the oldest continuously inhabited monastery in the world, is included. Built in 548 - 565 at the foot of Mount Sinai where Moses first encountered the Lord in the burning bush, St Catherine's has endured nearly fifteen centuries of successive waves of persecution: the seventh century Islamic conquests, the rule of various caliphates, Mamluk Sultans, and Ottoman rule. The Copts are constantly reminded of their subordinate position under Islam in the land their ancestors occupied since the time of the Pharaohs.

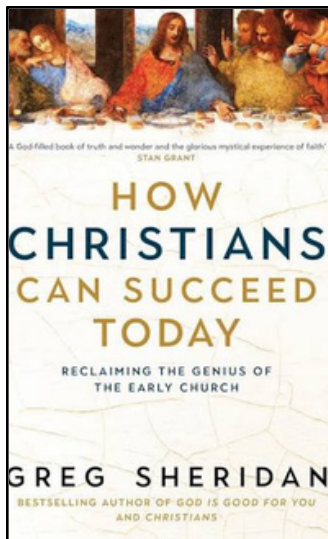

Egypt's 'Holy Family Trail' – one of the world's most important spiritual initiatives – is part of Egypt's identity with a spiritual message rooted in thousands of years of history. Many fear that increasing state control could impose entrance fees to holy sites to boost Egypt's tourist industry revenue, transform sacred places of worship into commercial assets and undermine Christian stewardship over its own religious heritage.

Churches and monasteries are not just relics or historical landmarks. They are living places of worship; irrefutable evidence of the connection of the world's oldest Christian communities to their ancestral lands. The demolition or take-over of Coptic, Assyrian and Armenian places of worship is part of a process of eradicating evidence that the Middle East was largely Christian centuries before jihadist warriors poured out of Arabia from 634 to subjugate surrounding nations to Islam. Many of these once predominantly Christian nations surround Israel, and have been actively involved in military aggression against the only Jewish nation, established on land given to them by God.

In April, Coptic Solidarity met with diplomats, UN officials, and human rights advocates in New York to ensure that urgent concerns are heard internationally before irreversible damage is done.

Book Reviews

Reclaiming the Genius of the Early Church by Greg Sheridan

Sheridan brings a great depth of scholarship and decades of experience as an internationally acclaimed analyst of world affairs to his inspiring book. He begins with a reflection on the decline of Christian practice and belief in Western nations, pointing to the influence of Neopaganism in modern culture for the rise in hostility towards 'counter-cultural' Christianity.

His focus on the miraculous growth of the early Church amidst intense persecution encourages all Christians to reveal the love and power of Jesus; living out the Gospel with the same resolute faith and fortitude as those who faced martyrdom with courage, rescued abandoned babies, and gave sacrificially to others in times of plague and peril.

Sheridan celebrates these Christian values in our time, emphasising the imperative of remaining true to Biblical teaching on moral issues, worshiping God in Spirit and in Truth, serving the poor, and spreading the Gospel with the spiritual gifts of healing, prophesy, knowledge and speaking in tongues.

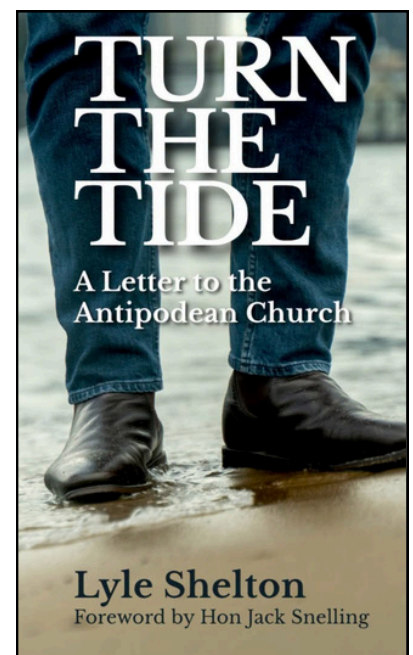

He advocates a return to classical education; to the pursuit of truth, wisdom and a relationship with God to replace ideological 'fads' which create division, alienation and even violence. He urges Christians to assert their rights to freedom of speech and faith, and pursue their responsibilities to campaign more energetically on behalf of our intensely suffering brethren - to challenge the indifference of the world which has failed to defend even basic human rights.

Turn the Tide - A Letter to the Antipodean Church by Lyle Shelton

"Turn the Tide" is a clear clarion call to Christians in Australia and New Zealand to engage in the mission of the church - to spread the Gospel to save souls, and to transform the world by reinstating Biblical values in public policy. The subtitle of this ground-breaking book: "Where is the Church?" addresses its role in issues vital to freedom and justice. Drawn from decades of experience as a battle-experienced warrior in the trenches of the 'culture wars', leading to the founding of Family First, Lyle speaks with discernment, wisdom, faith and courage to challenge us to strengthen the societal influence of Christian values.

As Western civilization comes under threat from the powerful ideologies of Marxism and Islam, it is imperative to acknowledge the consequences of comfort-seeking silence: the loss of freedom to speak the truth; identify sexual reality; question climate alarmism; stand against abortion; question the wisdom of mass migration; resist the imposition of Sharia law, challenge the decline of education standards and LGBTQI agendas targeting children.

This book addresses vital issues, offering great hope, encouragement, and a bold vision to empower and encourage Christians to take action: to 'Turn the Tide' back to the Lord; to reinstate the values upon which our nation was founded, and our future security and prosperity depend.
