SYSTEMS DIAGNOSIS AND STRATEGIC NARRATIVE

---

Organizations are blindsided by their own misalignment – not from lack of information, but from being too embedded in the system to see the gap between what it claims to produce and what it actually does.

---

THE OFFERING

---

I read systems in layers – looking for the gap between what is being reported and what is happening beneath it. The work identifies structural misalignment in incentive design, in feedback loops, in the inherited logic no one questions, in the language used to obscure what the system is actually doing.

---

THE OUTPUT

---

Essays, white papers, and analytical reports that name the gap specifically – whether structural, incentive-based, or epistemological – between stated purpose and actual behavior. Clear enough to hold in adversarial rooms.

---

INTENDED FOR

---

Organizations and executives that already sense something is off but have not been able to name it from inside. Energy, AI, infrastructure, governance, regulatory and compliance environments.

---

TO ENGAGE: Describe the system or the gap you need named.
