PROOFREADING

Once, a lion 35. became (a. become, b. became, c. became) sick in 36. His his (a. his, b. he's, c. hes) lair and many of the 37. other animals (a. ether anime, b. other anime, c. other animals) to visit him. However, the fox never 38. came (a. cane, b. kam, c. came), and finally the lion wrote a long letter 39. to (a. two, b. to, c. To) him, reminding the fox of 40. their (a. their, b. tere, c. these) friendship and suggesting that he come and visit the lion's 41. lair (a. dare, b. hare, c. lair). The fox was in the 42. locality (a. locality, b. locallity, c. vocracy) one 43. day (a. day, b. say, c. bay), but after 44. some (a. Sam, b. some, c. same) thought he went home without seeing the lion and 45. wrote (a. written, b. writhe, c. wrote) a letter 46. instead (a. instead, b. insists, c. instate). He said that he was 47. sorry (a. surrey, b. sorry, c. surry) to 48. hear (a. hare, b. hear, c. hair) that the lion was ill and he 49. promised (a. promise, b. promese, c. premise) that he would say 50. lots of (a. lot off, b. lots of, c. lot's of) prayers for his 51. recovery (a. recovered, b. recovering, c. recovery). "But I cannot see my way to visit you now," 52. He he (a. he, b. his, b. he's) wrote. "Because while I saw lots 53. of (a. of, b. if, c. oof) footprints 54. going (a. gone, b. going, c. goes) into your den, I saw 55. none (a. nine, b. nuns, c. none) coming out again."

SPELLING

My most treasured 56. possession (a. possession, b. procession, c. precision) is a dinosaur bone fossil, which I found while I was walking 57. through (a. though, b. thorough, c. through) caves in Wales. I don't 58. suppose (a. supose, b. suposs, c. suppose) it's every day that you stumble upon something almost 65 million years old! It must have been there since the days of 59. early (a. early, b. eerie, c. yearly) man. At first, I thought it was just some kind of 60. strange (a. strung, b. strange, c. stranje) reflection from the water. I just couldn't 61. believe (a. beloved, b. believe, c. believe) that such an 62. important (a. important, b. import, c. imprintant) piece of 63. history (a. history, b. herstory, c. history) was right there in front of my eyes! The dinosaur 64. probably (a. probly, b. proolly, c. probably) died in the shallow water and then got buried in the mud. The 65. weight (a. wieght, b. weight, c. weigth) of the mud and the 66. pressure (a. pressure, b. presare, c. preshare) of the water caused the fossil to be formed over thousands of years. I 67. consider (a. cansider, b. concider, c. consider) it to be a fantastic find!

Optional Homework Answers

SPELLING

I have a very bizzly (busy, buzz, breezy) year this year. There are lots of dates with a big sircle (sicle, circus, circle) drawn round them on my calinder (cylinder, calendar, candle). In Feburary (Febrero, February, Febry), I am going on an exstream (extreme, stream, exists) sports holiday to take part in lots of sports, including hand-gliding, abseiling and water-skiing. It should be a fun expeareance (appearance, experiment, experience)! Hopefully, in May, there will be a very special occation (occasion, ocasion, occassion) when I finally move house. It has taken such a long time to buld (bald, bailed, build). I am so looking forwerd (forward, foward, for-ward) to having a new addrres (adress, adores, address). In June, Grandad and Granny Whoops will arreave (arrive, artrave, arteave) in England to stay for a few weeks. Hopefully, my new spare room will be compleet (compete, complete, compare) by then so that they have somewhere to sleep!
