About

Koppice + Joro is a London-based interior architecture and joinery studio, specialising in kitchens, fitted joinery, and bespoke furniture for private residential projects.

Led by directors Tom and Luke, the practice brings together over 40 years of combined experience across high-end residential design, manufacturing, and project delivery.

We work at the intersection of design and making, developing considered schemes and realising them through a trusted network of craftsmen in the UK and Italy. Our work is defined by clarity of detail, material understanding, and a commitment to work that is both precise and designed for longevity.

Each project is approached individually, shaped through close collaboration with clients, architects, and contractors. From early concept through to installation, we maintain a consistent level of attention, ensuring that the design is carried through with integrity.

At its core, our work is about creating spaces that feel resolved, where proportion, material, and function come together with clarity and intent.

“Kitchens and joinery are conceived as part of the architecture, not applied to it.”

Craftsmanship

Craftsmanship sits at the centre of our work. It informs how we design, how we select materials, and how each element is resolved.

We work with skilled makers across the UK and Italy, combining advanced manufacturing with hand-finished detail. Each approach is applied where it is most appropriate, allowing for both precision and character within the same piece.

Attention is given to proportion, junctions, and the way materials meet, ensuring that every component is considered, consistent, and quietly refined.

Whether joinery, furniture, or stone, the focus remains the same: to produce work that is well made, carefully resolved, and built to endure.

Our Services:

01 | Working Together

We work with private clients, architects, and design teams, shaping projects through a collaborative and considered process.

Our role is to guide each stage with clarity, structuring decisions, coordinating input, and ensuring the process remains focused, calm, and well resolved from outset to completion.

02 | Kitchens & Architectural Joinery Design

We develop concepts into fully resolved schemes, where space, material, and function are brought into alignment.

Kitchens and joinery are conceived as part of the wider architecture, integrating appliances and services with precision. We work closely with leading appliance partners to specify solutions that sit seamlessly within the design, ensuring performance and clarity are maintained throughout.

03 | Bespoke & Modular Furniture

We design both bespoke pieces and modular systems, balancing flexibility with a consistent design language.

Whether freestanding or integrated, each piece is shaped by its setting, proportion, materiality, and use considered in equal measure.

Our Services:

04 / Craft & Manufacturing

Production is realised between artisan partners in Italy and our British workshop.

This dual approach combines heritage craftsmanship with advanced manufacturing, allowing for a high level of control, consistency, and refinement throughout.

05 / Materials

Materials are central to the way we think and work. Selection is guided by performance, longevity, and responsibility, as much as by appearance.

Natural materials are used with clarity and restraint, balanced with contemporary processes to create work that endures both physically and visually.

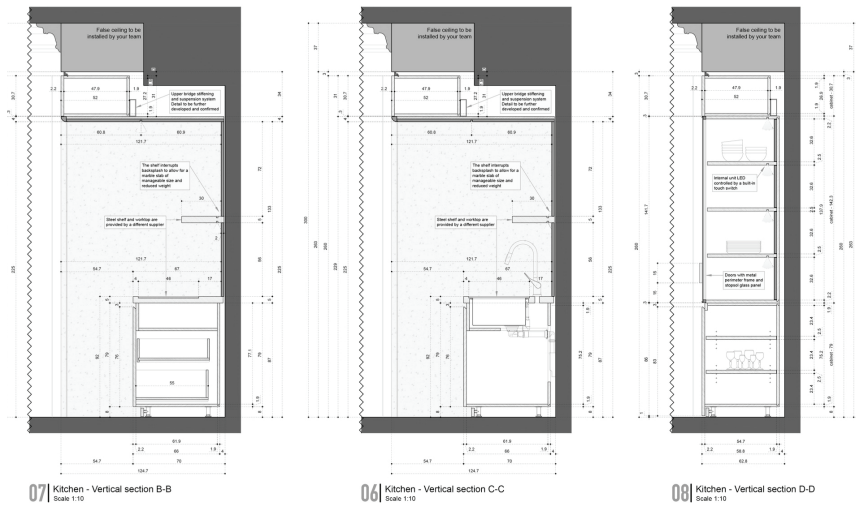

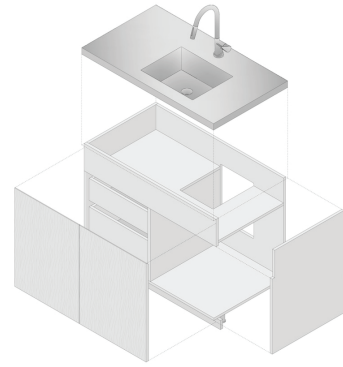

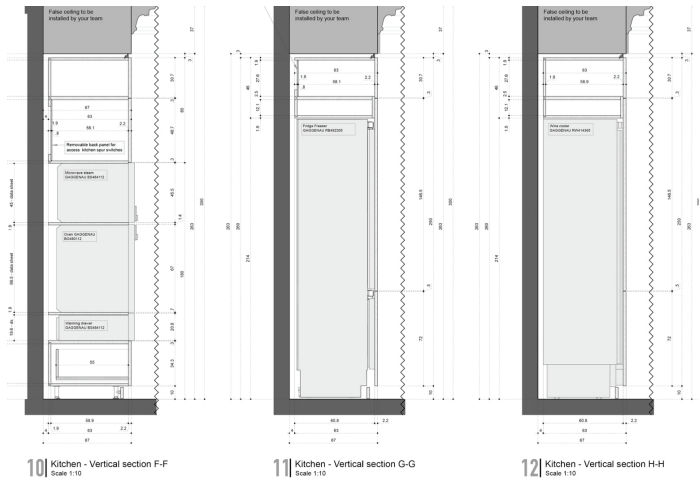

06 / Project Delivery

From early planning through to installation, we oversee each stage with care and precision.

Working closely with contractors and consultants, we ensure that the design is carried through as intended, coordinated, resolved, and delivered without compromise.

“Technical resolution underpins every project.”

“Material, light, and proportion in balance.”

Let's talk about your project.
