Use the promotion planner on your website

What this means

The planner helps you write a plan, prepare wording and record results. It does not post, send messages, buy ads or publish a campaign for you.

A real-life example

The cafe wants people to see its soup menu. It uses the planner to write the message and choose a next step before putting anything on its business page.

Simple teaching picture. Example business; not a live screen.

Your job

Try the route yourself. Use the tools you already have, and ask for help at the first confusing step.

Step by step: start here

1

Open Learn on vibewave.studio and find 'Plan your next promotion'.

Choose an industry example close to your business or start with your own idea.

2

Replace every example detail.

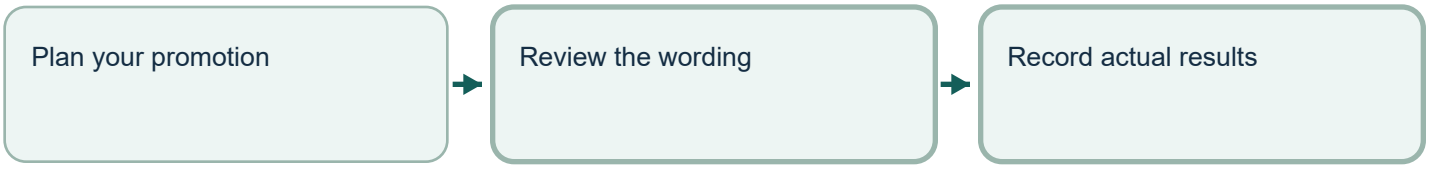

Enter your business, who the message helps, dates, useful information and the one action you want people to take.

3

Add the real link.

Open it first to check the page. Do not put passwords or private customer information into the plan.

Picture the route

Before you continue

Explain the first three steps in your own words. If a link, account or permission is missing, write that down before moving on.

Finish the task and check it

4

Choose 'Get my wording'.

Read the result and make it sound like you. Correct facts and remove any promise you cannot deliver before using it.

5

Keep a copy.

Use the available download or print option for a review copy. 'Save on this device' stays in that browser; use the account-saving option if you want its stated online features.

6

Use 'Track results' for what actually happened.

Keep hoped-for numbers separate from observed results. Approve and share your message separately; the planner does not launch it.

How you know it worked

A checked, dated plan is ready for review, and everyone understands that sharing it is a separate step.

Show someone the result on your phone. If you get stuck, write which step stopped you and ask for help with that step.
