

Grace has over 13 years' experience working in the Private sector as a Planning Consultant. She has an excellent track record of providing clients with succinct advice on the prospects of securing planning permission for a range of uses across all sectors.

BA (Hons) Geography and Planning – Newcastle University

MSc Spatial Planning – University College London, Bartlett School of Planning

Member of the Royal Town Planning Institute

Grace has been involved in numerous developments that have been complex and challenging, all of which benefitted from her meticulous project management skills.

One such example is when she successfully advised a private client on the processes to take when navigating the complex 'Para 84' route on a site in a Cotswolds Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB). The application was approved within 6 and a half weeks under delegated authority, and the scheme was labelled by the Council as being 'truly outstanding and innovative', reflecting 'the highest standards in architecture'.

Grace has worked on a wide portfolio of projects across the country, including residential, hotels, pubs and retail and has experience of dealing with complex heritage matters. She specialises in dealing with large high-end dwellings, particularly in London and the home counties.

Outside of work, Grace enjoys keeping fit and looking after her energetic toddler. She is very sociable and enjoys travelling the world and discovering new places.
