

New American Airlines Content in FCM Booking

Great news! We've expanded our offering for American Airlines flights in FCM Booking, giving you more choices and access to lower fares. Designed to deliver greater flexibility and value to your travel program.

American Airlines NDC in FCM

American Airlines now offers exclusive content through their NDC (New Distribution Capability) solution. This allows them to distribute flights more efficiently and provide unique fare options and pricing.

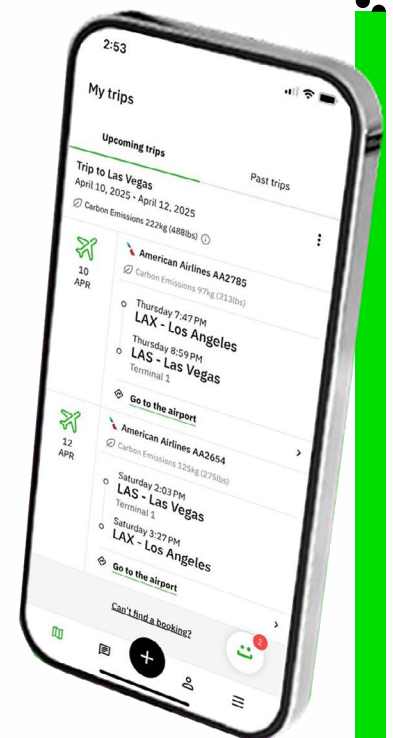

With AA's NDC content available in FCM Booking, you can access exclusive fare types like Main Plus and Main Select. These options include added perks like preferred seating, priority boarding, and free same-day changes—all in one place.

This new content works alongside your existing FCM Booking inventory, which already includes a variety of Edifact, direct API connections, and leading aggregator content. Now, you can explore all flight options seamlessly in a single search, ensuring a more streamlined booking experience.

What is NDC?

New Distribution Capability (NDC) is a new way for airlines to sell flights to travel agents and travel bookers. This solution helps airlines offer more options and personalized fares.

Each airline is creating its own NDC solution, and travel companies like FCM connect to these systems to give you access to better deals. As each airline builds its own unique NDC solution, the industry needs time to develop ways to access and fully test each system to make sure it meets the needs of your business travel program.
