

STILLness in MOTION

Meditative grooves for late-night minds. The Path is coming in 2026.

About

Jhāna is the new alias of Mexican producer Alejandro Merodio, through which he explores a universe of melodic dub techno infused with organic sounds, minimalist sensitivity, and breathing structures that unfold in time. His sound blends deep textures, hypnotic pulses, and subtle melodic details to shape a contemplative and physical form of electronic music.

The project unfolds in layers: restrained rhythms, warm synthesis, and melodic progression that evolves with intention. Drawing from melodic and minimal techno influences –such as Stephan Bodzin and PanPot– Jhāna embraces the physical energy of the dancefloor while inviting deeper immersion, where repetition, timbral nuance, and spatial awareness become central expressive tools.

His debut album The Path begins its journey on December 3, 2025, with the release of "Rūpa," the first single from a collection of tracks that unfolds between the body and the mind.

The term jhāna refers to states of deep concentration or mental absorption achieved through meditation. This concept serves as a creative anchor for the project, which seeks to recreate a sense of total connection with music.

STILLNESS IN MOTION

Music

"Rūpa" marks the beginning of Jhāna's debut album The Path, released on December 3, 2025, and available on all major streaming platforms and Beatport.

Built on a deep, pulsing bassline and driven by percussion that merges synthetic and organic elements, the track weaves hypnotic, enveloping melodic lines that create an immersive dancefloor experience.

The title draws from the Sanskrit word rūpa, meaning form, shape, or appearance. In Buddhist philosophy, rūpa refers to material or physical form—the tangible world perceived through the senses. It represents one of the five aggregates that constitute existence, encompassing all physical matter composed of the four elements: earth, air, fire, and water. Through sound, "Rūpa" explores this concept of form—the way rhythm and melody shape space, and how physical sensation emerges from the interplay of movement and stillness.

Live Set

Jhâna's live set presents the full narrative of The Path in an hour-long performance that explores dynamic sequences, live elements, and creative effects designed to energize the dancefloor. Moving beyond simple playback, each performance reshapes the album's material through real-time manipulation and spontaneous energy.

In collaboration with visual artist Rimiyoho at Domestika's studios, Jhâna has crafted an immersive audiovisual experience pairing the music with live painting projections. Light, form, and sound converge in real-time, creating moments of collective intensity and introspection where visual and sonic narratives evolve together.
