About the Hotel

Established in 1956 with an investment from the People's Government of the Tibet Autonomous Region, the Xizang Hotel serves as an important hub for economic and cultural exchange between Tibet and the rest of China. The hotel was transformed into a foreign-related hotel in 1988, earning recognition as a National Five-Star Tourist Hotel and the country's first cultural-themed tourist hotel to win the 'Golden Tripod Award'.

The building's architecture is centred on traditional Tibetan aesthetics, with red and white façades complemented by a golden roof, evoking the appearance of the Potala Palace. The interior is graced with elements such as prayer wheels, Tibetan relief carvings and turquoise, creating an ambience steeped in the charm of the Tibetan Plateau.
